

Project Summary

My project was intended to introduce the different characters and groups in a popular mobile game, Project Sekai: Colorful Stage. It gives a brief introduction of each group and the characters for each group, a sample song that they perform in-game, and a description of the group's origin/storyline. In the gallery page, each group is separated into a box bordered with the group's image color. Within these boxes, each member has a close-up detailed artwork, with the overlays describing the main details of each character's "focus event" that develops their personality and story further. The feedback page offers players the ability to leave feedback about any part of the game, and collects demographic information as well. Overall, my project aims to offer a quick introduction of one of my favorite mobile games in the style of an official introductory website, including a feedback form.

Within my website, I offer two of the listed additional features: a form that submits to a confirmation page, and video/audio tags. The form resides on the "feedback" page, and the audio tags are present on the "home" page when a user selects a group to view and they are able to listen to a music sample.
